

Full-Time Faculty Position Anatomist

The School of Health Sciences at King's College in Wilkes-Barre, PA is seeking an individual to serve in the faculty role of Anatomist. This appointment is for a full-time, 9-month position, starting in August 2020. Rank and position type commensurate with individual experience.

The successful candidate will have the ability to teach graduate athletic training and physician assistant students gross human anatomy and physiology didactically and in the College's on-site cadaver lab. In addition, responsibilities may also include teaching anatomy and/or kinesiology to undergraduate students in the health sciences (exercise science and nursing) or throughout the College. The successful candidate will collaborate with the Anatomy Lab Manager on preparing the lab and cadavers each semester while maintaining the daily operations for the facility. The teaching load for this position is 21 credits per academic year, including graduate level courses in both semesters.

Candidates must have a graduate degree (Doctorate preferred) in anatomy or a related field and be able to perform cadaveric dissections as well as guide students through the process in lab. The ideal candidate will have strong evidence of excellence in teaching at the graduate and undergraduate level and the ability to work in partnership with department chairs and program directors in continually developing the anatomy curriculum to meet the needs of health sciences students. Scholarship and professional development standards proportionate to rank and position type.

For confidential consideration, please submit a letter of interest, curriculum vita, and names and contact information of three professional references by email to hrjobs@kings.edu. Screening of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.
