

MASTER OF EDUCATION IN SPECIAL EDUCATION

in Partnership with the LIU18

(30 credits)

King's College offers Luzerne Intermediate Unit 18 (LIU18) post-baccalaureate educators the unprecedented opportunity to earn course credit toward a Master of Education in Special Education. For those who are in the process of completing or have completed the certification program, this program aligns the LIU18's certification program competencies to graduate credit with the addition of supplemental key assignments. Simultaneously or retroactively, qualified educators can earn a master's degree, complemented by the ability to leverage grants and financial aid. The articulated program directly addresses the national teacher shortage, removes barriers to access, and enriches the community.

Benefits of our master's degree program:

- Designed for working professionals.
- Minimize additional graduate-level credits by leveraging LIU coursework into this program.
- Complete supplemental assignments through an online learning management system, allowing you to work at your own pace.
- Receive graduate specialized training in creating and implementing individualized education plans (IEPs) and differentiated instructional strategies.
- Enhance your learning through mentorship opportunities with experienced faculty and renowned practitioners in the field.
- Leverage networking opportunities aimed at fostering connections and professional growth within the special education community.
- Gain initial 24 credits toward certification (Level 2) and earn a master's degree.
